Ride of Passage

Armageddon in the Livingroom

Harmageddon olohuoneessa
15 min • March 2020

Documentary

The Jehovah's Witnesses' internal judicial committee concluded that Josefina, 11 years old, had seduced her abuser, because "an adult wouldn't touch a child that way." Josefina believed she was guilty and remained silent. Until now. 25 years later she relives her traumas by reconstructing scenes from her childhood with other former Jehovah's Witnesses.

Does our society protect every child regardless of their religion? Why was this child left alone in such a horrifying situation? Even though there were more than five adults involved, including a public healthcare professional and the girl's mother who knew what had happened. These are the questions the filmmakers want to ask with this film.

Documentary

To Teach a Bird to Fly is an experimental documentary-fiction film that explores bird extinction and climate change through a fictionalized story told from the perspective of the future. The film follows the Waldrapp project in Germany, where a young woman (the narrator's future grandmother) helps breed and hand-raise the birds.

Human Flesh

20 min • 2019

Human Flesh is an experimental short film. Despite its analytical edge and unconventional structure it is a rather humorous account on the capacity signs have to express meaning. The film aims at exposing the complexities language, images, sounds and gestures pose in our attempt to express or represent pretty much anything... be it an emotion, a thought or even a simple form.

Human Flesh is set in a studio, a white non-space, where the concept of scale and spatial coordinates is lost. The materiality of its subjects is levelled and their capacity to generate meaning is equal: be it flesh, plastic, metal or just pixels. In the end, a font has the same expressive potential as a glass of lemonade or an actor twisting the face.

Director: Jani Ruscica Script: Jani Ruscica Cinematography: Jarmo Kiuru Editing: Jani Ruscica Cast: Ona Kamu, David Kozma, Kris Gummerus, Suzanna Pezo, Jarkko Pajunen, Geoffrey Erista, Kaisa El Ramly, Ilmari Järvenpää, Miila Virtanen, Heta Keskinarkaus Producer: Jani Ruscica Production company: Askel Productions

Kebab King

One's face is bruised, and the other has bought a kebab. After the encounter both of their faces are swollen and neither one has a taste for kebab.

Director's note: "I was on a work trip in Copenhagen when I got an inspiration for this short film. I visited an establishment called Kebab King, and I knew immediately that there was something. In the meantime, I had been preparing for another project. Combining these two things turned into Kebab King."

Kristal

7 min • Early 2020

Kristal, a blond show dancer in her 40s, drives around in a Lada car to small pubs and entertains people. Kristal is a weird saint, who bears all the hate, despair, lust and confusion around her and through that gives people a momentary relief.

Kristal is written and directed by Zaida Bergroth and composed by Lau Nau. It is a part of the Nordic Trips project where British artists Jane Pollard and Iain Forsythe have scouted director and composer combinations from all Nordic countries.
